True Characters

Petite Matilda

My sofa has five corners: Petite Matilda takes a seat

To mark Matilda's tenth anniversary, she is getting a charming new addition: Petite Matilda! A standalone 3-seater sofa that translates the collection's distinctive pentagonal geometry into a compact, solitary format. Softly upholstered, designed for communication, and unmistakably Matilda.

The new sofa follows the iconic design language of the Bretz classic and presents itself as a standalone piece in a compact format. The extra-deep seat offers surprisingly generous space for three to four people. For long conversations, stretched-out legs, weightless sinking back, and that precious feeling of slipping away from the world for a moment.

The best conversations deserve a special place

Like Matilda, Petite Matilda also thinks in five corners. The pentagonal structure creates an open, communicative layout that gently turns those seated toward one another. Sitting becomes connection. A sofa becomes a small island for conversations, closeness, and time spent together. The high backrests enhance the feeling of comfort and security. They support the body, gently embrace it, and create a sheltered place for cocooning, daydreaming, and long evenings.

Big in feeling. Compact in size.

The soft upholstery, generous seat depth, and characteristic back cushions translate Matilda's confident softness into a smaller format. Petite Matilda is ideal for smaller rooms, apartments, and open-plan living areas. Placed freely in the room, she makes an impact from every angle and reveals her full sculptural presence.

The beauty of wild bloom

Matilda’s little sister is presented in a new fabric: Wildflower, a jacquard with a digital floral pattern. The upholsteryresembles a colorful summer meadow of flowers that invites you to fall into it. Warm, vibrant, gently flowing. The floral texture drapes over the soft upholstery like a textile dress made of light, color, and memory. You sit down, sink in, and let your thoughts wander freely.

The capsule wardrobe for your home.

Even when changing covers, Petite Matilda stays true to her role model. The back cushion covers are removable, and new covers can be ordered. This allows Petite Matilda, like her big sister, to be dressed anew for each season. With changing fabrics, colors, and patterns, she becomes a small capsule wardrobe for the home. A floral summer dress today, a velvet evening gown tomorrow, and someday a new favorite look for every day.

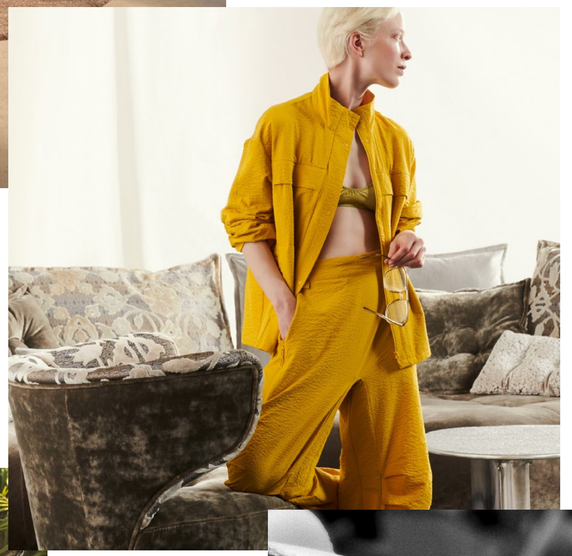

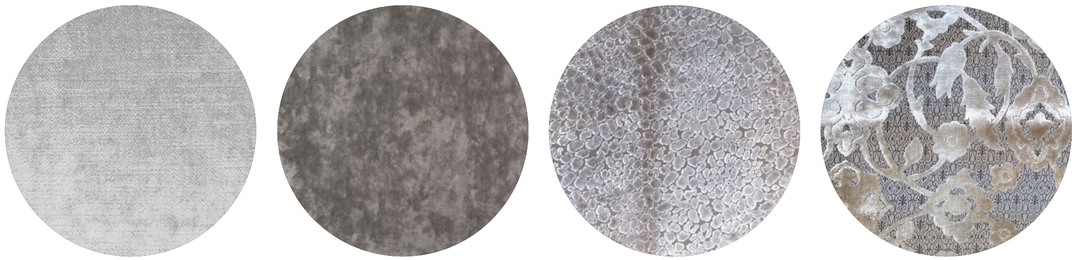

Ten years ago, Matilda marked the beginning of a collection that continues to play a defining role in the identity of Bretz to this day. Its distinctive pentagonal geometry and unmistakable character continue to shape the design language of the series.

From the first sketch to the final touch, every Matilda combines design precision with a passion for craftsmanship. Each model is lovingly handcrafted at the Bretz manufactory in Gensingen, Rheinhessen.

"For me, Matilda is more than a sofa. It is an island for conversation and a place to arrive and feel at home. Its five-sided base modules enable unusual layouts and a communicative seating arrangement that gently turns people toward one another. At the same time, it is exceptionally soft and can be reconfigured again and again.

The fact that Matilda still feels so relevant after ten years makes me very happy. Perhaps because it never tried to follow a trend. To me, it remains an independent poet among sofas to this day."
